Oliver Greenall Racing

Welcome to our March 2016 newsletter...

Bangor - We headed to Bangor with 4 runners and we started with Annie's Gun in the 3 mile maiden. It was her racecourse debut here and she showed plenty of promise in the testing conditions.We are looking forward to getting her back on the track where we hope she will show improvement.

We then moved on to The Mighty Noake in the Intermediate. This was his first run for over a year and the main priority was him returning safely. Thankfully this was the case and there is plenty to look forward to with him especially when he gets on better ground.

Late Romantic was the next to represent us and certainly didn't let us down! He made all to win readily against a very talented field. We have always thought a lot of him and it was nice to see him finally get his head in front which he certainly deserved. He will have one more run in a point to point before progressing to a career under rules.

Late Romantic wins at Bangor

Our Crusade was the final runner of the day and slightly disappointed us in finishing 4th, but we think he hated the slightly dead ground and hope he will bounce back on better ground.

Cheltenham - We hope you all had a thoroughly enjoyable week watching the racing and what a week it was! A lot of stars emerged from the week's action, it was a slight shame that Cue Card came down in the Gold Cup as we will never know what the true result could have been.

Easter runners - We have a busy few days ahead with lots of runners over the Easter weekend. We will be heading to Sandon on Saturday with 5 runners. We could be represented by Our Crusade in the second race, but we will be waiting to see how the declarations look before making a decision on which of 3 entries he will take up.

Hopefully, whatever race we choose to run him in he will have a shout of being there at the finish.

BadBad Leroy Brown

We will then be double represented in the young horse maiden with both Annie's Gun and Badbad Leroy Brown. The latter will be making his racecourse debut. He has shown us plenty at home and hopefully he will transfer that to the track.

The Mighty Noake will run in the Intermediate and can hopefully improve on his seasonal debut where he was returning from a long break.

Desert Sting should go very close in the last. He is stepping down to a trip where he has shown his best form and we hope he can finally get his head in front again with the headgear back on.

We will be equally busy on Monday, sending multiple horses to Eyton on Severn. Which of our entries we decide to run in the young horse maiden will depend mainly on the going. If the ground is good to soft, or quicker, Honest Intent will finally get his career under way. We have been waiting a while now to make his debut but hopefully this will be the case on Monday.

If too much rain arrives we will probably run Armitage Shanks in the contest. He will also be making his debut if taking up the engagement.

We will be aiming to win the prestigious Silver Fox with Oyster Shell. We will be hoping for nice good racing ground with him and if he gets this we expect him to run a big race.

Richard Hewitt's colours will be seen again in the Confined with Cappalanus aiming to improve on his form so far this season. We are hopeful that this will be the case with the better ground being much more in his favour.

We expect to have two runners in the concluding Maiden race. Modulus should also appreciate the better ground and should improve on his last outing. Hopefully, this will also be the case for Norton Grove who jumped and travelled perfectly before getting tired on tacky ground last time out.

Hopefully all horses over the weekend will run with credit and we can nick a winner or two!
